Safety in Wireless Torpedo-Firing.—Radiations from Rusting.—A New Science.—An Air Filter for the Nose. The Best Test for Floor Materials.—How the Flying Fish Flies.—A Timidity Cure.

The control of distant mechanisms by electromagnetic waves offers fascinating possibilities, Edward Branly, the inventor of the coherer, having already started, stopped and steered a boat by a properly tuned system of wireless receivers. To avoid outside interference—an important matter in such operations as exploding torpedoes—M. Branly has prefected an ingenious though complicated apparatus. A wheel has a non-conducting rim with five conducting pins at equal distances, and a cam is placed so as to move a lever and start the action of the mechanism when the wheel makes a complete turn. Two flexible brushes make contact with each other through the pins. The receipt of an electric impulse turns the wheel at a uniform rate to the first pin, another wave sends it to the second, and so on, but if no wave is received as pin is reached, the wheel drops back to starting point. A contact with each pin last only one-twentieth of a second, there is little probability that the precise moment would be hit five times in succession by any random shower of sparks from an enemy.

Radiations from ordinary substances have been studied in Germany by F. Streintz. In a gas containing oxygen, such metals as magnesium, aluminum, zinc and cadmium give off invisible rays—presumably like ultra-violet light—that ionize the surrounding gas and act as photographic plates. Of practical interest is the observation that metals may be protected from rust by electricity.

The importance of gas as a source of energy is shown by the fact that Germany's iron and coal industry alone uses about 400 large gas engines with a combined capacity of 420,000 horse-power.

The primitive life of the earth comprises a multitude of microscopic forms, each of a single cell or group of simple cells, and some not distinctly plants or animals. The bacteria have been assigned to the special science of bacteriology, forms having a vegetable mode of life are claimed by the botanists, and the protozoa are ranked as animals. The bacteria were formerly looked upon as the sole agents of disease, but recent researches prove that perhaps a fourth of the protozoa exist as parasites, and play a part in the disorders of man and other creatures. The malaria parasites became known in 1880, those of the Texas fever of cattle in 1893, and those of tsetse-fly disease in 1895. These sensational discoveries have opened a wonderful new field for investigation, and have transformed all plans for making habitable certain disease-infested regions. Malaria, for instance, is now known to be due to parasites spread by mosquitoes, instead of being attributed to bad air from marshes. The malaria parasite is digested in all stages in the stomach of mosquitoes of the genus Culex, but in the Anopheles mosquitoes certain stages resist digestion, the parasites multiply, penetrate the stomach walls, and produce an immense number of germs which eventually reach the salivary glands, when the mosquito becomes infectious. Similar organisms, with different methods of distribution, seem to prey on many animals. Our knowledge is just beginning, but has already developed a new science of protozoology, of which a special chair has been established at the University of London.

Breathing through a wet handkerchief at night has given relief to hay-fever patients. This has suggested to Dr. A. C. Heath, a novel filter, which consists of two rings connected by a bridge, each ring having stretched over it a fine netting of silk gauze. The rings are to be worn in the nose, half an inch from the openings. This device has been tried without discomfort in a number of severe cases of hay-fever, and the removal of pollen or dust has invariably improved the breathing within fifteen minutes to an hour.

Exposure to the sand-blast for two or three minutes cuts away road and floor materials as much as months of ordinary wear, and it has been found in Germany that this is the best method of testing such materials. A special apparatus has been made by Alfred Gutmann, near Hamburg. Test cubes of 2 4-5 inches to a side are cut with a diamond saw or molded, and one side of the cube is partially covered, so that a circular area 2 2-5 inches across is exposed to the sand thrown up by a jet of steam escaping from a pressure of two atmospheres. Natural quartz sand is used, with rounded grains passing through a sieve of 774 meshes per square inch. The abrasion shows the quality and the characteristic properties of the material, the homogeneity of the different parts, the coarseness of the grain or the peculiarities of structure, and the uniformity or irregularity of wear. Granite, porphyry, blast furnace slag, artificial stone, hard plaster, linoleum, and oak, pine and other woods, are among the materials that have been tested in this way.

The theory that the flying fish glides through the air like an aeroplane, propelled by the tail and guided by the pectoral fins, is disproved by Lieut.-Col. C. D. Durnford, an English naturalist. He finds that an average flight begins with a jump into the air, impelled by the tail and aided by the wing-like fins; that it is continued by a labored and exceedingly rapid movement of the seemingly motionless wings, which at times slow down so that the vibration becomes visible; and that it ceases either with a sudden stoppage or gradual slowing down of the wings before reaching the water.

Stage fright is a disease and easily cured, we are told by Dr. Paul Farez of Paris, the remedy being suggested. He has had rapid and permanent recovery in three cases. The usual associated bodily failings, such as respiratory spasm and heart troubles, are treated simultaneously with suitable medicaments.

Open the bowels and get the cold out of your system. Kennedy's Laxative Cough Syrup opens the bowels and at the same time allays the inflammation of the mucous membranes. Contains honey and tar. Suspicious.

Mr. Bilkins (looking up from the paper)—The eminent physician, Dr. Greathead, says there is no exercise so conducive to health in woman as ordinary housework. Mrs. Bilkins—Huh! I'll bet he's married.—Tit-Bits.

NEEDLESS NOISES.

Maddening Effect of Some Sounds That Assail One's Ears.

It is the needlessness of most noises that renders them insufferable. You sleep very well through the roar of a wintry storm, but if some one has forgotten to fasten a blind and it begins to bang then you are lost. You might as well get up and locate that blind and fasten it first as last. The manifold noises of your steamer's plunge through the night, with the perpetual wash of the sea, unite in a lullaby to which the worst conscience sinks into repose, but a snore breaking from the next stateroom recalls the memory of all one's sins. The rush and leap and incessant but varied grind and clang of the sleeping car become soothing at last, but a radiator, beginning to fizz and click after the steam has been turned off, seems to leave the would be sleeper no resource but suicide. If you could get at the second engineer and leave him weltering in his gore, you could snatch a few cat naps before morning. But you cannot get at the second engineer after midnight in most hotels. Continuous noises and necessary noises are things you can adjust senses or your spirits to, but the noise without a reason, without an apparent right, like the gnawing of a rat in the wainscot, is what drives so many to perdition.—W. D. Howells in Harper's.

When Honeymoon Ends.

"How," said the young man who had been in the matrimonial game for nearly a week, "can I tell when the honeymoon is over?"

"It will be over," answered the man who had been married three times, "when your wife stops telling things and begins to ask questions.'"—Chicago News.

Social Danger.

So long as we have at the bottom of our social fabric an army of vagabonds, hand to mouth livers and slum dwellers, half starved, dirty, foul mouthed, so long are we in imminent danger. And it is want of work which makes recruits for this army.—Mirror.

Serenading Felicia

By OTHO. B. SENGA

Copyright, 1906, by Ruby Douglas

"Run out, children; run out and play," coaxed Felicia, "shooing" them along with the skirt of her pretty gown.

"You come, too, Aunt Fillie," begged Jimmie. "You said you'd play 'timbuktu' today."

"I'm going to be very busy this morning, Jimmie," evaded Felicia.

"Going to try on?" cried Gladys ecstatically. "Oh, do let me stay!"

"I'm not going to 'try on,' Gladys; it isn't the dressmaker who is coming," Felicia smiled happily.

The brown eyes of Bobby the adorable opened wider and then narrowed knowingly. "You goin' to have p'tic'lar comp'ny?" he demanded.

Felicia's joyous laugh rang out sweetly. "Yes, Bobby, very particular company."

"I'll bet anything it's Mr. Parker," grumbled Jimmie. "I don't want to go away if it is."

"Oh, let us stay!" cried Gladys, jumping up and down. "Mr. Parker'll want to see us—he always does. You know, Aunt Fillie," argumentatively, "he said the other day he was very fond of children."

"Yes, I know," hurriedly, "he is fond of children—good children, obedient children"—

"Then we'll thtay," agreed Donald placidly.

"Of course," assented Gladys and Jimmie, with one accord, seating themselves on the steps with cheerful alacrity.

"Come on, Bob," Jimmie added patronizingly.

But the adorable one stood aloof, regarding Felicia with gravely reproachful eyes. "Has he got somepin' p'tic'lar to say to you?" frigidly.

Felicia laughed and blushed rosily. "I think so, Bobby," gently. "Now, Jimmie," coaxingly, "you are the oldest—you ought to set the others a good example. Take them away and have them play something. I want to talk with Mr. Parker a little while, and then perhaps we'll play."

Jimmie rose grandly. "I'm most nine," importantly. "I'll boss the others. Come on, kids."

He stopped and turned to his pretty aunt with masculine superiority. "But if you're smart you won't keep Mr. Parker shut up in that dark parlor very long. I bet he druther play 'timbuktu.' Come on, Bob. What you standin' there for?"

Felicia paused on the steps and looked back apprehensively. The adorable one stood in the path, his feet planted wide apart, his hands thrust into the pockets of the recently acquired trousers and a faraway look upon his beautiful face that somehow filled Felicia's heart with foreboding. Had she known Bobby better she might have feared less—or more! She ran down the steps and laid a detaining hand on Jimmie's arm.

"Jimmie, dear," she whispered impressively, "remember that Bobby is your guest, and you must do everything you can to make him happy."

"All right," gruffly, still with a sense of being defrauded. "Come, Bobby."

"Go with the others, Bobby," coaxed Felicia alluringly; "they will show you their pets."

He brought his heaven turned eyes down to her face.

"Some day," he breathed sweetly, "I shall give you a Sarah Nade."

"So you shall, Bobby," gratefully, "whenever you wish."

Bobby skipped away, and Felicia ran singing up the steps.

"Isn't it sweet of him?" she thought. "I never heard him sing except that once at All Saints'. I don't wonder they call him the adorable one! Such a lively thought, to give me a serenade!"

"This is my dorg," introduced Jimmie proudly. "His name is Bunch o' Brightness, but we call him Bunch for every day. Get your cat, Gad. Glad's cat is a blue ribboner!"

The big, fluffy Persian was brought out for the admiration of the guest, who regarded it with coldly critical eyes.

"Where's Don's pet?"

"It's a parrot," explained Gladys. "He's in the house—in a cage. When we got Fluff we had to shut the parrot up, 'cause he wanted to pick Fluff's eyes out."

"You orter hear the parrot talk!" cried Jimmie. "He can say 'Now's the time,' 'Go it, old boy,' and 'I'll bet on you,' plain as I can."

"Let's bring him out," tempted the adorable one, "and look at all three together and see which is the nicerest."

"Oh, we can't!" cried Gladys hastily. "If they should fight, Aunt Fillie would be most scart to death."

The back of the adorable one is turned squarely upon the timorous Gladys. "Girls," witheringly, "are always scart."

"I guess we'd better, Glad," said Jimmie slowly. "She said do everything we could to make Bobby happy."

"We'll make everybody happy," answered Bobby serenely. "We'll give her a Sarah Nade!"

"What's a Sarah Nade?"

"He means lemonade," interposed Gladys, anxious for reinstatement. "I'll help make it."

"No, it's a Sarah Nade—singing and—and bringing gifts. You make a p'cession and have your pets for gifts, and we'll all sing."

"Can't we dress up?" The girl never wanders far from her wardrobe.

"Naw!" in concert from the three masculines.

"Oh, I mean play dress up," pleaded Gladys. "I'll put on one of mamma's dress skirts, and Jimmie can put on papa's coat."

"Has it got tails?" The possibilities of the proposal appeal to the adorable one.

"I can find one with tails," eagerly—"two tails."

"All right. Can't you put a skirt on, Don? Then there'll be two ladies and two gentlemens in the Sarah Nade."

Don objected, but his minority vote was not recorded, and twenty minutes later the procession stole noiselessly up the steps and opened the door into the cool, dark hall.

Don, bearing the bellicose parrot, staggered patiently up the front of his mother's new tailored skirt; Gladys, with Fluff's claws digging wildly into her bare arms, switched the train of a pale blue foulard; Jimmie held his hand over the quivering jaws of the anxious Bunch and divided his attention between the trailing silk draperies in front of him and the two tails that dragged the ground at his rear. The adorable one, walking somewhat remotely, bore no indication of any participation in the proceedings.

Don pushed aside the portiere at the parlor door.

"In a Sarah Nade," the manager had explained before starting, "every one sings the things he likes best. Just as quick as we reach the curtains all begin!"

Don was like the heroes at Balaklava—not his to question why. He poked himself into the dim, sweet smelling room and opened his mouth in a doleful howl. Gladys pushed in close behind him, shrilly yelling; Jimmie planted both feet firmly on the blue foulard and gruffly vociferated in an imitation bass.

Their entrance was evidently not happily timed. An athletic young man sprang to his feet with a smothered exclamation, and Felicia was silent from sheer consternation.

Don's next step, gasping "Where the love in your eyes I could see," was inimical to renewals of any sort. Being born under Cancer, his movements were usually sidewise and crablike, and the clinging broadcloth skirt added to his uncertainty of balance. He fell heavily, and his chubby foot and legs upset the shrieking Gladys and bowled the valiant rag and bone vender on top of his suffering sister. Gladys in falling grasped despairingly at the legs of the astounded Parker and brought him to his knees on the howling heap.

Poll escaped from Don's clutches and instituted a severe investigation of every leg, arm or body within reach of her vicious beak, clamoring incessantly. "Go it, old boy! Now's the time! I'll bet on you!" Bunch o' Brightness showed his fighting blood in violent attacks on Poll and the yowling Persian.

The man disentangled himself angrily and turned to the now hysterical girl. "I suppose you call this funny, Miss Austin, but I must confess my idea of a joke fails to coincide with yours."

He stepped grimly over the struggling mass, kicked Bunch—not gently—and with apparent relish cuffed the squeaking parrot.

"Glad tidings of great joy I bring," sang a seraphic voice as Parker strode into the hall. The adorable one was standing in his most admired Sunday pose, his hands loosely clasped before him and his beautiful face turned upward. He smiled beatifically into Parker's face and completed his carol.

"Did she like it?" with sweet solicitude. "Did she like the Sarah Nade?"

"Bobby," sternly, "who put up this job and what is it for?"

"Me," proudly. "We wanted to Sarah Nade her."

From the parlor came a pitiful sob and then a shrill, insistent, childish voice, "Did he say, Aunt Fillie—did he say that p'tic'lar thing he came to say?"

Parker went back.

"I didn't, Gladys, but I'm going to now. I won't be driven off so easily."

And, to the astonishment of the serenaders, he took Aunt Fillie in his arms, whispering swift, passionate words that brought back the sweet flush to her cheeks and a tremulous, happy smile to her lips.

Onions.

Onions are an excellent cure for sleeplessness. They act as a kind of soporific if taken in small quantities before retiring. They will be found to be more appetizing if finely chopped up and laid between two thin wafers or biscuits. Eaten in this way, they are also easily digested. The reason so many people complain of onions disagreeing with them is that they eat too much of the homely vegetable. Onions are not intended to be eaten en masse. When they are taken raw they should be thoroughly masticated, or, better still, the juice of the onion should be pressed out and taken on bread or as a sauce. In this form the onion is splendid for liver complaints and acts in consequence as a purifier for a dark and muddy complexion.

Walter Pater's Way.

I remember telling Walter Pater about "The Story of an African Farm" and the wonderful human quality of it. He said, repeating his favorite formula, "No doubt you are right, but I do not suppose I shall ever read it." And he explained to me that he was always writing something and that while he was writing he did not allow himself to read anything which might possibly affect him too strongly by bringing a new current of emotion to bear upon him.—A. Symons in Monthly Review.

COCHINEAL.

The Way the Tiny Insects Live and How They Are Gathered.

Merry millions of little buglets support the vast cochineal industries. Where the tiny cochineal insect comes from is something of a mystery, but he does come wherever the nopal plant grows and for a long time was thought to be a seed or a floweret of the plant. The living female insect is twice as large as the male, weighs one-tenth of a grain and loses much weight in drying, so that 70,000 are needed to make one pound. During the rainy season many millions of the creatures are drowned or washed off the plants, so that when the long dry summer comes there are but a few survivors on each plant. But these multiply so rapidly that before long the plants are covered. The last act of the female's life is to deposit a large number of eggs, on which her dead body rests, protecting them from the burning rays of the sun until the little ones emerge. In about six weeks after the beginning of the dry season comes the first harvest. The plantation laborers make the round of the nopalry and with a brush go over the entire plant, sweeping the creatures into a bag. They then are killed by immersion in hot water, by exposure to steam or by drying in hot ovens. The hot water or steam makes them a dark reddish brown or black cochineal. The hot ovens make them a red gray hue or silver cochineal. The females outnumber the males by at least 200 to 1, a fortunate fact for the planter, since the males are of no use to him whatever.

THE CABS OF NEW YORK.

They Are Not an Integral Part of the Life of the City.

The cab is no integral part of New York life. Venice without the gondola were as unthinkable as a woman without hair. No little of London's compelling charm is in its swift rolling hansoms. These things we know. But one can't think of New York in terms of cabs. Once upon a time I was in exile. Only in memory did the great city rise before me, and what I saw was this: Huge canyons of stone and steel, filled with noise and darkness, through which great yellow worms crawled, one after the other, in midair. That is the picture of New York that haunts the exile, even as the outlawed Venetian is obsessed by slim black gondolas cutting across lanes of moonlight. Your true New Yorker is a steam projected, electrically carted person. Only in exceptional moments of gloom or gayety does he ride "in a carriage and pair." He is carriage ridden to a funeral. He cabs it in winey moments, when the fear of God is not in him. There are only 2,000 licensed cabs and hacks on the island of Manhattan. Others there are, of course, plying piratically in the dark quarters, but even with these thrown in the reckoning is small. No; the New Yorker is not a cabby person.—Vance Thompson in Outing Magazine.

A College In Bokhara.

There lay behind the great arch and the domes and the minarets a retired precinct of ancient trees and shaded walks, a grove in the midst of a city, colonnaded in quadrangle by the pointed arches of the students' cells. Under the trees was a sort of summer house or pavilion. Two or three young men were walking in an avenue against the farther colonnade, and on the stone steps of a wide, shaded pool sat several mollahs on their praying rugs. We visited a number of the students in their cells—monastic little brick walled rooms where they live the year around (there are no vacations in Mussulman colleges) and for years on end. It is not unusual for a student after passing the primary school to spend as much as fifteen or twenty years at his higher studies, though usually in such a long course he will go through several different colleges in the order of advancement. Quiet men, these students, mild eyed, patient, often middle aged.—Minneapolis Bellman.

Girl Slaves In China.

A native writer in a Chinese publication remarks: "When a girl is sold in China she becomes the slave of her owner and a part of his property. She no longer retains her freeborn rights, but surrenders them all to the will of those who own her. She receives no compensation for her labor, but is obliged to accept such raiment and food as her owners may be pleased to give her. In cases of tyranny or gross cruelty she cannot appeal for redress. She may be resold, given away or cast off in the streets at the arbitrary will of her master. All freedom is denied her, and she remains a tool and chattel in the hands of her owner until she is sold again or until death releases her from her unwilling fate."

Effects of Deafness.

An ear specialist insists that deafness affects all the senses. He says the reason for this is that the ear is only one servant of the sensory service of the human system. Loss of hearing is really a partial paralysis of the brain, but owing to the sympathetic connection of the various sensory nerve centers of the brain the others indirectly concerned have to combat for their very life the demoralizing influence of the affected center.

Consideration of a Motorist.

DRESSING FOR DINNER.

A Habit to Be Cultivated by All Classes of Persons.

"Dressing for dinner" is regarded by some as a piece of arrogance and as evidencing merely a desire to appear superior to somebody else. They observe no dignity in the custom and perhaps do not realize the fact that the change of clothes is consistent with personal comfort and cleanliness, whether the new garments donned be of the evening dress pattern or not. The most important meal of the day affords to those who dine in the evening an excellent opportunity of exchanging their workaday clothes for a suit which has been brushed and aired.

The bracing effect of a change of clothes is well known. Many a man, being almost too fatigued after an arduous day's work to change his clothes, finds himself considerably refreshed when he experiences a feeling of cleanliness and preparedness for his dinner, and good digestion invariably waits on healthy appetite. The changing of clothes may even thus favorably affect nutrition. Nor need the changing of clothes be the exclusive luxury of the persons who dress for dinner. The hard worked clerk, the shopkeeper and the workingman would all be better if they would cast off their workaday clothes and put on clean clothes for the evening meal after the day of toil is over. The change freshens the body, gives a gentle stimulus to the wearied hand and head, and a brighter view of things is thereby engendered. The habit is, besides, cleanly, dignified and becoming.—Lancet.

Claude Duval.

This gallant robber of men's purses and ladies' hearts was of French extraction. Duval became so rich with his ill gotten gains that he was enabled to retire from the profession and return to France. But a quiet life, free from the excitement of his old career, did not agree with his adventurous spirit. He returned again to England and resumed his avocation. At length he was captured at the Hole in the Wall, in Chandos street. While in prison awaiting his doom many ladies of position visited him and endeavored to obtain his release, but justice was inexorable, and he was hanged at Tyburn in January, 1670. His epitaph in St. Paul's church, Covent Garden, speaks of him as "Old Tyburn's glory, England's illustrious thief," and tells us:

Here lies Duval. Reader, if male thou art,
Look to thy purse; if female, to thy heart.

Bismarck's Resentment.

The Hamburger Nachrichten contributes the following to the stories relative to the relations between Emperor William II. and Bismarck. "If the kaiser wished to ride alone," said Bismarck, "I could have found no objection. That he drove me away, though, wounded me. If he wanted to get rid of me he should have told me so frankly, and I would have taken six months' vacation. If things got along without me I would have remained away. Otherwise I should have returned. But this! I was nearly thrown out of my house in the Wilhelmstrasse. I had to pack my belongings in haste, for Caprivi was waiting at the door."

CITY OFFICIAL PAPER.

Official Paper of Amador co.

FRIDAY..... JAN. 4. 1907

Patronage Abuse.

If any credence is to be given to the city papers, the incoming republican administration is committed to a very unwise policy in the distribution of patronage from the very outset. It is intimated that a black list of republicans who refused to abide by the choice of the stuffed Santa Cruz convention in the interest of Gillett has been prepared from every county in the state, and that the names thereon are to be debarred from favors under the Gillett administration. It is said that Amador county furnishes 100 names of proscribed republicans. If J. N. Gillett has allowed himself to be inveigled into any such scheme, he is a man of much narrower views than we took him to be. The policy does not accord with his broad utterances from the platform during the campaign. Less than two-thirds of the republicans of the entire state voted for Gillett. He is a minority governor by over 60,000 votes. Thousands of republican refused to vote for any candidate for governor. Here in Amador county, which went against him by 292 with a normal republican majority of 250, there were four per cent of the voters declined to vote for governor. Out of a total of 2409 votes cast, the number cast for various andidates for governor foot up 2318, or 91 short of the total vote. It is only reasonable to assume that these were practically all republican votes. They could not support the regular republican nominee, and would not vote for either of the other candidates. This being so, the percentage of party votes lost at the head of the ticket must have been fully six per cent. Never in the history of Amador county was there such a tremendous defection from the head of a republican state ticket. Now it was not because of any objections personally to the republican gubernatorial nominee. It was conceded by those who could not, and did not support him, that he possessed the requisite qualifications for the high office. Under circumstances untainted with bossism of the rankest kind, they would have supported him as cheerfully and earnestly as any other man that might have been nominated. Their adverse vote was a protest against corrupt and autocratic methods, not against the man. The office-holding and office seeking brigade dictated the nomination from selfish and personal motives. A vast army of republicans, comprising, we do not hesitate to say, the very best element of the party, protested against the tactics of self-constituted bosses, and cast an adverse party vote from conscientious and patriotic motives. They believed then, and believe still, that they were better and truer republicans by registering their protest in the way they did for cleaner methods in politics.

As far as the republicans of this section who failed to endorse at the ballot box the doings at Santa Cruz are concerned, we believe we can truthfully state that the black list arrangement will not disturb them in the least, so far as their individual interests are concerned. Men who vote their convictions, even against their party allegiance, are not of the stamp to be swayed by the shaking of the "big stick." They are not members of the pre counter brigade, and the exclusion act, if a fact, affects them not in the slightest degree. But they are concerned from party and patriotic motives, in the exhibition of the spirit that actuates such a course. If carried to execution it means that the chief executive of the state affixes his seal of approvals upon the methods adopted to secure his nomination. That is the significant part of it. Many were willing to hold him blameless, to give him the benefit of every doubt. But they can no longer do so if he attempts to draw the line of demarcation between republicans in the maner suggested. There was bungling enough at Santa Cruz. It was hoped that better counsels would prevail; that the policy would be to heal the wounds thereby created; and the governor was expected to lead the way. To do otherwise is in our opinion unwise, tending only to encourage factional strife in the ranks. The last campaign was the most wretchedly mismanaged on the republican side, that ever befell the state; and we still hope that its blunders will not be perpetuated and repeated by the incoming administration, to its own discredit and the injury of the party throughout the state.

A man with a sprained ankle will use a crutch, rest the ankle and let it get well. A man or woman with an overworked stomach can't use a crutch, but the stomach must have rest just the same. It can be rested too without starvation. Kodol will do it. Kodol performs the digestive work of the tired stomach and corrects the digestive apparatus. Proposed Sunday Law.

An amendment to the state constitution is proposed, making Sunday a day of rest, with penal consequences attached to the violation of its observance as such. To accomplish this compulsory rest-day it will be necessary to submit an amendment to the voters of the state. Of course there is not the ghost of a chance for such a povision being incorporated in the organic law. The promoters of this idea no doubt are actuated by laudable motives, and believe they are trying to advance the best interests of the state. Nevertheless, we cannot commend the move, and believe that it is a step backward rather than forward. It is in fact an attempt to call upon the civil authorities to support and uphold a strictly religious, if not sectarian, notion. True, the advocates of a Sunday law disclaim any such intention. One day in seven for rest is necesary for physical reasons, independent of moral or religious considerations entirely. That position is not seriously controverted, but it is the interference of the civil power in matters that properly belong to the domain of conscience that constitutes the solid objection to the measure. Such laws have never been productive of good, and they have been tried repeatedly. In Boston today men are been haled to prison on the most frivolous pretexts under a Sunday law. Scenes common under the blue laws of early Puritan times are been enacted in New England over again, to the detriment of the cause which such laws are designed to help. The advanced thought of the church is against the enactment of compulsory Sabbath keeping laws.

It may be urged that no harm can come of having such an amendment submitted to the will of the voters; that in our form of government the majority must rule; that if the majority want a Sunday law enacetd, all should be willing to submit there to. The reasoning is fallacious. It assumes that all questions should be subject to the wishes of the majority. It is only in matters within its province that the state should frame laws, and the observance of rest-day is wholly beyond its province. Such question belongs to the church, not to the state. And the church must secure obedience thereto, if at all, not by corporeal penalties, but by implanting in the mind a desire for its observance. The religionist observes Sabbath because he is so disposed. He does it cheerfully and voluntarily as a religious duty.

Human Race is Dying Out.

The statistics just published by Dr. Meslier on the depopulation of the whole world are startling.

Dr. Meslier says that this is not only caused by artificial means but that the whole human race is gradually dying out. Taking the years of 1881 to 1903, he says that for every thousand married women from 15 to 55 years of age taken from different countries, the births have decreased in England 18 per cent, 10 per cent in Scotland, 10 per cent in Bavaria, 7 per cent in Italy, 7 per cent in Sweden, 11 per cent in Russia, 17 per cent in France, 17 per cent in Denmark, 18 per cent in New Zealand, 24 per cent in Saxony, 25 per cent in the State of Victoria and 33 per cent in New South Wales.

TAX REFORM.

By Carl C. Plehn, of the Commission on Revenue and Taxation.

Editor Amador Ledger:

A copy of the interesting article on Tax Reform appearing in your issue of December 14, 1906, has just come to my attention. I should esteem it a favor to be allowed to present some further considerations on the same line.

You raise the question whether or not the plan of tax reform proposed by the commission would tend to carry the corporations into politics to a greater extent than does the present system. The present system, it must be remembered, places wide and arbitrary powers in the hands of the assessors in all matters relating to the taxation of corporations. The courts have decided that they will not review the valuations placed upon property by an assessor for purposes of taxation, such valuation being a matter fully within his discretionary power. He may include in the assessment of a corporation a valutaion of the "franchise" in amount sufficient to cover all the intangible values, which arise from a corporation's earning capacity. The same board powers are now vested in the state board of equalization with regard to the assessment of railroads. Under the present system there is every inducement for corporations to go into politics.

Under the plan proposed by the commission there would be substituted for the arbitrary power now held and exercised by the assessors and the state board of equalization a mathematical rule, which will eliminate the necessity for the exercise of judicial discretion by any officer. The gross earnings of our public service corporations are definite facts, easily ascertainable, and hard to conceal or manipulate. Once the gross earnings are ascertained all that remains is to multiply them by the tax rate and collect the amount due. It is the view of the commission that this will take the matter of the taxation of public service corporations out of politics entirely. They could not by political influence lower their taxes nor could the masses of the voters even if they have a "deep rooted prejudice against corporations," run riotously into extravagance.

At first sight it may seem to be an objection to the plan of the commission that under it the state's revenues would be samewhat rigid or inelastic. It is, however, easy to exaggerate the importance of elasticity in a revenue system. Under the proposed plan the revenues of the state would increase with the growth of the earnings of the public service corporations. This is the same as saying that they will vary with the prosperity of the state and grow with its growth. If "hard times" come again, which we hope may not happen, the revenues of the state might stand still or even decrease. But would it not be appropriate, that in hard times, when all the taxpayers are pinched nd have to economize, the state too should retrench? If the plan of the commission had been in operation in 1905 the revenues of the state would have been $9,400,000 or about $600,000 short of what they actually were. But by the time the plan can go into operation it is estimated that the revenues obtainable thereunder will be ample for all necessary purposes, and yet not so large but that the legislature would have to weigh very carefully the relative merits of the various claims on the treasury.

As you state, the question of tax reform is a serious problem. The commission has studied it carefully for two years; its recommendations are not untried novelties, but are strictly in line with good precedents in other states.

Dec. 31, 1906.—Good-bye to the Ledger and all connected with it for this year, for before this letter is printed another year will replace the old one that must be forever buried in the memory as a fiction or a fact, and filled with all its accumulations of evil or good. Then a merry new year to each of the Ledger's employes, and may good and not evil follow each and everyone.

This morning this place was visited by a light fall of snow, giving the woodland an oriental cast. As one looks out through the window upon the drooping boughs, and rocks and hills covered in a mantle of white, one sees, in the mind's eye, the surroundng of some Eastern home, ready for the sled with its panting horses and tinkling snowbells.

Mr and Mrs Frank Traganza left for Folsom yesterday, where they have a large mining claim, which Mr Traganza intends to work extensively this winter and spring.

Cedar Grove, across the line in El Dorado county, is to have a dance to-night. I will simply say: "Get your snowshoes together gentleman, or else you may get "cold feet," as an Alaskan would say, before you get there.

Frank Harrell, a former resident of this place, was married last week, to a German liquor dealers daughter of Stockton.

Rumor has it that Arthur Mills, his mother and brother, are to take up a permanent home in Sacramento city hereafter.

Cleve Bell is now at home with his parents, and will stay for a while.

Mrs Stumpff will move up to Indian Diggins soon, where her husband is now employed in mining.

John and Mrs Frank Mooney, (nee Frankie Crain) came down to spend Christmas with her mother, Mrs Crain. Hugh and A. J. Crain, jr., also came down. Giddy Dick.

LANCHA PLANA.

C. F. Kaiser, who formerly conducted the Lancha Plana hotel, has moved to Amador City, where he will engage in the saloon business.

Mr and Mrs Tom Sheridan spent Christmas in Stockton.

Mrs W. Crail has been appointed postmistress at Lancha Plana, and will soon take charge of the office.

Mr and Mrs W. Crail were passengers on the stage Wednesday en route to Sacramento.

The Christams entertainment in the town hall on Sunday night was a grand success under the management of Mrs R. Barnett.

A very pleasant evening was spent in Julian hall on Saturday evening. A good program under the direction of Miss Mabel Cochrane was rendered, after which dancing was indulged in.

Mr and Mrs Tyler have returned from their honeymoon, and are visiting at Lancha Plana.

AMADOR.

Miss Edythe Berryman and Hazel Whitehead left Saturday morning, for a few weeks' visit to Oakland.

Chez Torre departed for Stockton Sunday morning.

Will Dunlap attended the dance in Sutter Creek New Year's eve.

Louis Cassella left for Sacramento Wednesday morning.

Miss Maud Read is visiting friends here for a few days.

A number of Amadorites attended the masquerade ball in Jackson New Year's eve.

Will Gordon returned to San Francisco Wednesday morning.

The new year was welcomed with whistles and bells, and the merry voices of the young folks, who waited patiently to greet it. No doubt we will need a new school bell, for it rang over an hour. Inquirer.

THE SHAMROCK.

At One Time It Was Used For Food In Ireland.

That the shamrock was used as diet before it was adopted at the national emblem has been conclusively demonstrated, though in proving the fact one writer borrows from another. Very few drew their information from personal observation. Spenser undoubtedly did, and he is perhaps responsible for the familiarization of this fact to his contemporaries. I quote the passage from "The View of the Present State of Ireland:"

"Out of every corner of the woods and glinnes they came creeping foorthe upon theyr handes, for theyr legges could not beare them. They looked like anatomyes of death; they spake like ghostes crying out of theyr graves; they did eat of the dead carrions, and yf they founde a plotte of water cresses or shamrokes there they flocked as to a feast for the time."

This dietary use was known to the Elizabethan dramatists.

I vill give tee leave to cram my mouth phit shamrokes and butter, and vater creeshes instead of pearsh and peepsh.—Ben Jonson's "Irish Masque."

This Irish footman, a wild kerne, a frog, a dog, whom I'll scare spwin. Longed you for shamrock?—Thomas Dekker.

"The shamrock thus used for food," says Mr. Colgan, "was one or other, or perhaps both, of the meadow clovers, or trefoils, Trifolium pratense (purple clover) and Trifolium repens (white clover) of modern botanists."—Notes and Queries.

THE OLD FARM.

Thoughts It Brought to One Who Knew It as a Boy.

One morning I was awakened with a strange new joy in my mind. It came to me at that moment with indescribable poignancy, the thought of walking barefoot in cool fresh plow furrows, as I had once done when a boy. So vividly the memory came to me—the high airy world, as it was at that moment, and the boy I was, walking free in the furrows—that the weak tears filled my eyes, the first I had shed in many years. Then I thought of sitting in quiet thickets in old fence corners, the wood behind me rising still, cool, mysterious, and the fields in front stretching away in illimitable pleasantness. I thought of the good smell of cows at milking. You do not know if you do not know! I thought of the sights and sounds, the heat and sweat of the hayfields. I thought of a certain brook I knew when a boy that flowed among alders and wild parsnips, where I waded with a three foot rod for trout. I thought of all these things as a man thinks of his first love. Oh, I craved the soil! I hungered and thirsted for the earth. I was greedy for growing things.—American Magazine.

French Sentiment.

A French parricide who slew his father and mother and was asked upon condemnation what he had to say and why sentence should not be pronounced upon him, entreated the court to have mercy upon a poor orphan. This tale is green with the moss of ages and may not be true, but something like it is true of a woman named Marie Celvet, sentenced by a Paris tribunal to twenty years' imprisonment at hard labor for the murder of her sister. While in court she constantly wore a long crape veil. "Why do you wear this veil?" asked one of the officials, to which she replied that she was in mourning for her sister, showing an affectionate sensibility, the earlier exhibition of which, however, would have been more becoming to her even than the garment.

After Death.

It is very singular how the fact of a man's death often seems to give people a truer idea of his character, whether for good or for evil, than they have ever possessed while he was living and acting among men. Death is so genuine a fact that it excludes falsehood or betrays its emptiness. It is a touchstone that proves the gold and dishonors the baser metal. Could the departed, whoever he may be, return in a week after his decease he would almost invariably find himself at a higher or a lower point than he had formerly occupied in the scale of public appreciation.

A Remarkable Carrier Pigeon.

A remarkable story of the sagacity and physical endurance of a carrier pigeon is told in Nansen's story of his arctic explorations. One day the pigeon tapped at the window of Mrs. Nansen's home in Christiania. It was immediately opened, and the little messenger was covered with kisses and caresses by the explorer's wife. After an absence of thirty months from the cottage the pigeon had brought a note from the explorer over a thousand miles of frozen waste and another thousand of ocean, plain and forest.

Advantages of Kilts.

The London Tailor and Cutter observes with its usual keen insight into human nature: "No one has yet suggested the utility of kilts. They never bag at the knees, nor do they ever require patching at that part, and their hygienic properties are proverbial."

Where He Saved.

Two residents of a suburban neighborhood were talking of the merits of gas and electricity and their comparative cost. "Well, I haven't figured it out carefully," said the man who used electric light, "but I know I save a lot of matches."

For a violin by Petrus Guarnerius, dated 1695, £260 was given at a recent sale in London; while one by Nicholas Lupot fetched £240.

Too Energetic.

"Last Saturday," said the flat dweller, "I went out into the hall and saw a woman on her knees scrubbing the marble very well, making it a beautiful dead white. I thought to myself, 'This is a good scrubwoman; I'll ask her to scrub my kitchen and clean my windows.' I did. She scrubbed all the paint off the floor of my kitchen and washed the panes of two windows entirely out.

"I was glad I didn't ask her to wash my face," she finished.—New York Press.

What Breathing Amounts To.

In each respiration an average adult inhales one pint of air. A man respires sixteen to twenty times a minute, and a young child about twenty-five to thirty-five times. While in a standing posture the number of respirations is greater than when lying down. A man takes only thirteen breaths of air to the minute while reclining. The superficial surface of the lungs is 200 square yards. The amount of air inspired by an adult in twenty-four hours is about 10,000 quarts. The least amount of air needed by an adult in one hour is 380 quarts. The heart sends through the lungs 5,000 gallons of blood daily.

Most Birds Love Toys.

Most birds love toys. The playthings help to while away the time and prevent them from tearing their plumage. Parrots are especially devoted to playthings and can be trained to do simple tricks with the objects specially fancied. A soft billed bird will amuse itself for an hour with a peanut which it cannot break, a tiny bell or a mirror just big enough to reflect its own head. —Mary Dawson in St. Nicholas.

Fixing the Value.

Jones—So the price of that "old master" is $5,000. It doesn't look to be worth $10.

Art Dealer—Yes, but remember it was painted in 1249. Just think what $10 at compound interest would amount to for that length of time!

Impertinent.

Old Doctor—What are those white objects I see in the distance, my dear? Miss Pert—Those are signs advertising your profession, sir. Old Doctor—Ah, I thought they might be tombstones. Miss Pert—So they are.

Suppose She Had Been Out!

Notice To Taxpayers.

Office of the Tax Collector
County of Amador, State of California.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN TO THE taxpayers of Amador county, that I, T. K. NORMAN, Tax Collector of Amador county, did on the 8th day of October, 1906, receive from the County Auditor of Amador county the original assessment books for the year 1906, containing a list of the persons assessed for real and personal property, and the amount of State and County taxes due thereon for said year.

That said taxes are now due and payable to me at my office in the Court House, in the town of Jackson, county of Amador, State of California.

That the taxes on all personal property secured by real property, and one half of the taxes on all real property were due and payable on the second Monday in October, 1906, and will be delinquent on the last Monday in November next thereafter, at 6 o'clock p. m., and that unless paid prior thereto, fifteen per cent will be added to the amount thereof, and if said one half be not paid before the last Monday in April next, at 6 o'clock p. m. an additional five per cent will be added thereto.

That the remaining one-half of the taxes on all real property will be payable on and after the first Monday in January next, and will be delinquent on the last Monday in April next thereafter, at 6 o'clock p. m., and that unless paid prior thereto, five per cent will be added to the amount thereof.

That all taxes may be paid at the time the first instalment, as herein provided, is due and payable,

First instalment, one half real estate and all personal property, due October 8th, 1906.

First instalment, one half real estate and all personal property, delinquent November 26th, 1906, at 6 o'clock p. m.

Second instalment, one-half real estate, due January 7th, 1907.

Second instalment, one half real estate, delinquent April 29th, 1907, at 6 o'clock p. m.

All the taxes may be paid in full at the time the first installment is due.

Taxes not paid according to law will be delinquent, and 15 per cent and 5 per cent and other costs will be added thereto.

Positively no Checks received for the payment of taxes.

T. K. NORMAN,
Tax Collector of Amador county.

By reference to our marriage column it will be seen that Arthur Roy Sharenbroch, the oldest son of Mrs Sharenbroch, of Middle Fork school district, was married in San Joaquin to Miss Daisy Ellenor Larson. The bride has been teaching school in New York Ranch district for the last term, and in Middle fork district during the preceding term. The newly married pair will make their home in San Francisco, where the groom has been employed in the electric business for some time. They have the earnest wishes of the Ledger for their matrimonial happiness.

W. E. Kent, as administrator, has sold the Kent residence on Broadway, including the large barn in the rear, and the south half of the store lately occupied by him in the general merchandising business, to James Harris, who lives on the adjoining premises. The price is reported to be $3000, and is considered a fair bargain on both sides. The undertaking business has been disposed of to C. Giovannoni and G. M. Huberty, undertakers. So that hereafter there will be but one undertaking firm in Jackson, as the business will be consolidated. The business will be carried on at premises heretofore occupied by the Kent establishment near the Broadway bridge, that being more commodious than the quarters used by Huberty and Giovannoni. The old quarters of the latter firm will be devoted to storage purposes. According to common report the sum of $1000 was paid for the good will and stock of the Kent undertaking department.

Miss Eva Kent left Monday morning for Sacramento. She left without intimating to her close friends the object of her visit to the capital city. The same day a license was issued by the county clerk of Sacramento authorizing the marriage of Eva L. Kent, aged 40, of Jackson, to John Turner, aged 42, of Santa Cruz. We have not noticed any account of the solemnization of the wedding, but it is reported that they were quietly married in Sacramento on New Year's day. Mr Turner left Jackson some time back, and we are informed has established himself in the upholstering business in Santa Cruz, where the newly married couple will make their home in future. Both contracting parties were residents of Jackson for many years, the bride being a native of this town. Their many friends wish them a pleasant voyage on the matrimonial seas.

L. Perlanda received a dispatch from Ryolite, Nev., on December 30, stating that Nick Claich, well known around Amador county, died suddenly there that day of pneumonia. He had been around the Nevada mining camps for about a year. He was taken down with pneumonia, which is quite prevalent in that trying climate, and succumbed to that desease in a few days. He was buried in the local cemetery. For over twenty years he lived in Amador county, and has worked in the mines in different towns here.

A marriage license was issued by the county clerk December 31, for the marriage of L. C. McGregor of Diamond Springs, El Dorado county, and Alberta Allison of Plymouth.

We are requested to state that ticket 323 won the large doll on exhibition at the Cuneo store. The party holding the lucky ticket will please call at the store and get the prize.

The "Missouri Girl" in Love's hall last night drew the largest audience that has greeted a traveling show for a long time. There were ten rows of reserved seats sold, the revenue from this source alone amounting too over $100. Those who attended are unanimous in the opinion that it was one of the best entertainments given in this city.

The Jackson public school will reopen next Monday, with John E. Wylie from Glenn county, as principal, vice W. H. Greenhalgh, county superintendent elect, resigned.

Piano Contest Closes.

The voting contest for the piano offered by the Dispatch to the most popular lady, as determined by the votes on paid-up subscriptions to that paper, closed on January 1. Mrs A. Cofer was the prize winner with 29,915 votes; Miss Jennie Postle was a close second with 25,050 votes. Both leading contestants held a great block of votes in reserve to the last moment. The total number of votes polled was 59,450.

Rainfall.

A heavy hailstorm broke over this city about midnight of Sunday last. It was accompained by one of the most terrific thunder storms we have experienced for years. The lightening was something grand, lighting up the whole heavens. Rain and hail fell in torrents for over a quarter of an hour, followed by a slight snow fall about 6 o'clock in the morning. The ground was covered with a mantle of white until late in the morning. Nearly one inch of rain, including the hail and snow, fell during the storm. There were few roofs that stood the test without leaking, and some damage was done to merchandise stocks on account of leaking owing to the gutters being choked with hail and snow. In Gregorys' variety store some loss was sustained in this way. At the local brewery the electric transformer was burned up. In the height of the storm the alarm of fire was given on account of this mishap. There was a display of fireworks that threatened a serious blaze for a time. However, it did no other damage than putting the transformer out of commission. This shut off the electric power from the Ledger office also during most of the morning. Before noon an old transformer was pressed into service temporiarly and things moved along as smoothly as before.

During the past week the rainfall in Jackson has been as follows:

December 28	0.11 inches
" 29	0.04 "
" 31	0.96 "
Total for week	1.11 "
Total for December	12.60 "
Total for season to date	15.23 "
Same period last year	4.49 "

The rainfall for December has been phenomenal. Rain fell on thirteen days, beating all records for that month both in the total precipitation and the number of rainy days. The total for the season to date was exceeded in 1899-1900, when the rainfall up to January 1 was 16.53 inches.

Severed an Artery.

Joe Bacigalupi, better known as Indian Joe, of the Scottsville camp, ran into trouble of his own seeking on Wednesday night. About midnigh the appeared at the Olympus saloon, much the worse for liquor. Becoming quarrelsome, he was ejected from the place. It seems that in the effort to put him out he thrust his hand through the glass door, cutting his wrist to the extent of serving the main artery. The life fluid spurted out as from a force pump, and he would speedily have bled to death, had not prompt measures been taken to stop the flow. Deputy sheriff Kay, took the precaution to tie the arm tightly above the wound thereby stopping the bleeding to a great extent. Dr. Endicott was sent for, and treated the injuries, after which Joe was introduced to the county jail. About 18 months ago he was convicted of shooting at a Mexican near town, and sentenced to 18 months in State prison. He had been discharged only about two weeks, when this fresh adventure overtook him.

Looting in Transit.

We mentioned last week that the merchants of Jackson are making an outcry because of the shrinkage of invoices of merchandise en route, principally from San Francisco. The loss is not confined to any particular department of merchandise. It embraces almost every line of business, tobacco, cigars, liquors, being leaders. We have heard in one instance a case of one dozen was found to be short nine bottles. In a number of other cases the shortage has been from 20 to 25 per cent. This is a serious matter, that demands a rigid investigation. There was some talk of a movement to have goods hauled by teams from Ione. It is now conceded that the trouble does not rest with the Ione and Eastern road, nor yet with the Amador Branch line from Galt to Ione. Watchers have been employed along these lines, and nothing out of the way has been discovered. The packages are broken open and after a liberal amount of loot has been taken, they are secured so that no outward indications appear that they have been tampered with. We understand that merchants in other towns are complaining of the same thing. It is now supposed that the shrinkage takes place either at the starting point, or some place along the main line, where cars are often sidetracked for days. It is likely that if the evil continues a damage suit against the railroad company will be started, which will probably have the effect of inducing the railroad to locate the mischief for their own protection.

A Man Mistook for Game.

Word was brought here yesterday that a man named Keith had been shot in the neighborhood of Fort Ann, five miles from Volcano, in mistake for wild game. The shooter was W. Denend. It was done with a 32 rifle, at a distance of 300 yards. The ball struck the unsuspecting victim in the fleshy part of the flank or hip, making merely a superficial wound. He was taken to Volcano, where his injuries were surgically attended to.

Masquerade Ball.

The annual ball given by Ursula Parlor on New Years' eve assumed the character of a masquerade ball this year. It took place in Love's hall Monday evening last. It was decided to have a masquerade, inasmuch as it was thought that it would no doubt draw a large and appreciative crowd. Their judgment in this respect was fully borne out by the result. There were 70 maskers on the floor—quite as many as the capacity of the hall could accommodate. And there were a large number of spectators, at 50 cents each, which aided materially in making the affair a financial success. The managers were Mrs Annie Jackson, Mrs Ida Peek, Mrs Lena Burgin, Miss Annie Perovich and Miss Kate Driscoll; with Mrs Rose Podesta as floor director. Cambles' orchestra of four pieces furnished the music, which gave general satisfaction. The costumes took a wide range, and were principally home made. There was variety enough to entertain the curious, and kept them guessing as to the identity of the maskers. Everything passed off harmoniously. On some previous occasions the parlor has failed to make expenses by their annual ball. This year, however, notwithstanding the heavy expense incurred in such an undertaking, the receipts leave a fair margin for the benefit of the parlor. The exact balance we are unable to state, but it will be in the neighborhood of $30.

An excellent supper was served at the Globe hotel at 50 cents per plate, which was most liberally patronized by the dancers, at the hour of midnight. After supper dancing was resumed and kept up with spirit until five o'clock in the morning.

Acknowledgement of Donation.

The following acknowledgement of the receipt of donation from Jackson toward the reconstruction of school buildings in San Francisco will be of interest.

W. H. Greenhalgh, principal, Jackson Grammar School, Jackson, Cal.

My dear sir:—Enclosed please find receipt for sixteen dollars and twenty cents ($16.20), the contribution of the Jackson school to the San Francisco school reconstruction fund. The wonderful outpouring of sympathy for San Francisco in her distress, as evidenced by your generous contribution, added to many others of like character, is so deeply appreciated by us that it is impossible to give adequate expression to our gratitude. I trust that you will express to all concerned in this particular gift our most heartfelt thanks.

Very sincerely yours,
Alfred Roncovieri,
Superintendent of schools.

MINING NOTES.

Bright—Strong hopes are entertained that the pending negotiations for the bonding of this property will terminate successfully. Mr Bright is now dealing direct with the capitalists interested. An expert is expected to reach here any day direct from the east to investigate and report on the mine. To assist in this diection, Mr Bight has put two men at work to free the mine of water to the depth of 70 feet, at which point a drift has been run, and a blast of 10 holes was fired this week, breaking down a large quantity of ore. This is done so that parties in interest may judge for themselves as to the quality and dimensions of the ore body.

Kennedy—At the depth of 3000 feet, the east ledge of this famous property has been struck. The rock is said to be of fair milling grade.

Argonaut—W. Stark has been placed in charge of the Argonaut mill, vice E. Taylor, resigned. It is understood that the new management of this property will assume charge next month, and that Mr Matthew, one of the principal stockholders will be here and personally superintend the property.

Pretty Home Wedding.

A very pretty home wedding on Christmas day was that of Miss Nellie A. Burnside, daugther of Mr and Mrs R. T. Burnside, and Carl Koch a prominent Southern Pacific engineer, which was solemnized at the home of the bride's parents, 2918 W street, Rev. George E. Swan pronouncing the ceremony under a beautiful wedding bell of maiden ferns. White carnations and crysanthemums pink and green with potted plants and palms were the decorations. The bride was beautifully gowned in Persian cream voilie and carried a bouquet of ferns and bride's roses. Martin Burnside was groomsman and Miss Edena Green was bride's maid. She wore a dress of pink albatross and carried a bouquet of asparagus ferns and pink rosebuds. The marriage was solemnized at 1 o'clock in the presence of near relatives and a few invited friends. All partook of a sumptuous Christmas dinner. The bride and groom departed on the evening train for Los Angeles and the city of Mexico.—Sac. Union.

The groom is a native of Jackson, and passed the years of his boyhood days in this town. The Ledger wishes the newly married pair abundant happiness and prosperity.

School Apportionment.

On the 28th December, school superintendent Geo. A. Gordon made the first apportionment of money for the maintenance of the public primary and grammar schools of Amador county for the school year commencing July 1, 1906. This apportionment is of county money.

C. L. Culbert, County Auditor of Amador county, reported that $12,518.74 was available for apportionment. To this amount was added the balance remaining in the unapportioned county fund, $11.70, and from the aggregate, $12,530.44, apportioned, there was $12,353.70, leaving a balance in the unapportioned county fund amounting to $176.74. There will probably be an apportionment of state money, as usual, in the month of January.

E. C. DeWitt & Co., of Chicago, at whose laboratory Kodol is prepared, assure us that this remarkable digestant and corrective for the stomach conforms fully to all provisions of the National Pure Food and Drug Law. The Kodol laboratory is a very large one, but if all the sufferers from indigestion and stomach troubles could know the virtues of Kodol it would be impossible for the manufacturers to keep up with the demand. Kodol is sold here by F. W. Ruhser.

The Best Guaranty of Merit Is Open Publicity.

Every bottle of Dr. Pierce's world-famed medicines leaving the great laboratory at Buffalo, N. Y., has printed upon its wrapper all the ingredients entering into its composition. This fact alone places Dr. Pierce's Family Medicines in a class all by themselves. They cannot be classed with patent or secret medicines because they are neither. This is why so many unprejudiced physicians prescribe them and recommend them to their patients. They know what they are composed of, and that the ingredients are those endorsed by the most eminent medical authorities.

The further fact that neither Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, the great stomach tonic, liver invigorator, heart regulator and blood purifier, nor his "Favorite Prescription" for weak, overworked, broken-down, nervous women, contains any alcohol, also entitles them to a place all by themselves.

Many years ago, Dr. Pierce discovered that chemically pure glycerine, of proper strength, is a better solvent and preservative of the medicinal principles residing in our indigenous, or native, medicinal plants than is alcohol; and, furthermore, that it possesses valuable medicinal properties of its own, being demulcent, nutritive, antiseptic, and a most efficient antiferment.

Neither of the above medicines contains alcohol, or any harmful, habit-forming drug, as will be seen from a glance at the formula printed on each bottle wrapper. They are safe to use and potent to cure.

Not only do physicians prescribe the above, non-secret medicines largely, but the most intelligent people employ them—people who would not think of using the ordinary patent, or secret medicines. Every ingredient entering into the composition of Dr. Pierce's medicines has the strongest kind of an endorsement from leading medical writers of the several schools of practice. No other medicines put up for like purposes has any such professional endorsement.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation. Constipation is the cause of many diseases. Cure the cause and you cure the disease. One "Pellet" is a gentle laxative, and two a mild cathartic. Druggists sell them, and nothing is "just as good." Easy to take as candy.

Declined Her Own Medicine.

There is always more or less talk current about abolishing position and dispersing pelf. The trouble is to know just where to begin the destructive reconstruction and to find reformers who are willing themselves to be reformed. An English great lady was once entertaining the labor member of parliament, Henry Broadhurst, the Duke of Argyll and others at her country seat. She was a strong Liberal, and one evening inveighed against the house of lords. It would be swept away if it did not reform, she said with fervor.

"Yes," agreed Broadhurst, "and how will you like that, Mrs. P.?"

"Lady P., if you please, sir," instantly corrected Broadhurst's hostess, drawing herself up haughtily.

A River of Death.

Before the English occupation of India it was estimated that the Ganges carried to the sea every year 1,000,000 dead bodies. It was then considered by the Hindoos that the happiest death was one found in its waves, and all pious Hindoos who could do so were carried to its banks and placed in its waters to die. The decaying carcasses along its banks were probably responsible in no small degree for the pestilences which formerly desolated the peninsula.

Bad For Tall Hats.

New Year's eve, which is sacred to St. Sylvester, is celebrated in Berlin by the blowing of tin horns, the ringing of bells and all other devices for making a noise. The only horse play indulged in is at the expense of the wearer of the silk tile. Any one on the street is privileged to bring his cane down on the crown of the offending headgear as hard and as often as he can. When the man with the dilapidated hat complains to the police the only consolation he gets is, "It serves you right for wearing it on Sylvester night."

Low Down.

"You are anaemic," says the physician after thumping and prodding. "You should practice deep breathing."

"Deep breathing!" retorts the patient. "Why, doctor, that is just what I do all the time. I work in a subway cellar sixty feet below the street level."—Judge.

Insincerity.

Be honest with yourself, whatever the temptations. Say nothing to others that you do not think and play no tricks with your own mind. Of all the evil spirits abroad at this hour of the world insincerity is the most dangerous.—J. A. Froude.

BASKET FISH.

When Dried, the Queer Arms Closely Resemble Plaster of Paris.

At its marine residence, away down in deep water, the name on the door plate would be "Astrophyton," and it belongs to a species called ophiurans. It has a well marked control disk, not unlike a clam, but has no shell. From this central body radiate arms, five in number, like those of the familiar starfish, and these arms are divided into minute branches, like the twigs on a tree, until they number in some cases a thousand separately defined hairlike tendrils. While the body is not large, the branches when extended measure about eighteen inches in diameter. The creature has the power of incurling these branches until it closely resembles a shallow dish. This it does when caught and about to die, remaining in that shape when dried.

It has been given the name of basket fish. It frequently (when caught by a dredge, for that is the only way it can be taken) throws off these arms or parts of them, so that a perfect specimen is hard to be procured in its natural condition.

These arms and their subdivisions are almost white when dried and closely resemble plaster of paris. They are very brittle, easily broken and cannot be repaired. The fish live among the roots of seaweeds and are supposed to feed upon these, moving about by wriggling and clambering with their arms or fastening upon the roots and pulling themselves along.

Most of the knowledge regarding their habits is conjecture, for none have been taken alive and kept for sufficient time to give them proper examination and study.—St. Nicholas.

HOW TO KEEP YOUNG.

Be Hopeful, Avoid Worry and See the Amusing Side of Life.

Women more than men are possessed with a dread of growing old, not realizing that maturity has its charms and compensations. We wish young people oftener had it impressed upon them that they may provide for a happy old age by laying up a reserve of sound health and a store of happy memories as well as by cultivating tastes and resources which will outlast youth. As for those who are already approaching middle age, there is no surer way to grow old prematurely than to dread the future. It is essential, if we wish to keep young, to cultivate that hopeful habit of mind so characteristic of youth—the hope which makes one able to say with Browning, "The best is yet to come," and with Lucy Larcum, "Every year life is larger and deeper and more beautiful in its possibilities." Allied with this attitude of expectancy must be the ability to see the amusing side of life. Worry and vexation over what would better be laughed at result in disfiguring wrinkles. Above all, if the years bring us, as they should, a better understanding of ourselves, a broadening of active human sympathies, a firmer faith in Providence, we shall find life abundantly worth the living, no matter what may be the number of our birthdays.—Western Review.

The Heart of a Child.

That which disparages us and quickens revolt is no less a factor in a child's emotional life. But there is this difference—we have the better opportunity to defend ourselves and to obtain reparation. So there is a certain pathetic pleasure in standing with humanity where its joys, its longings, its embarrassments and its disappointments are simplest and newest, and, perforce, where impotency is absolute. Give me this most uncommercial, this divinest of enterprises for my own! Give me a child to be at home with, to be in absolute confidence with! If I cannot refashion my warped, wrinkled and discolored old soul into the unbiased graces and the ethereal purity of the spirit of the child, let me now and again open that little door and shut myself in that little heart, just for the sheer delight of it.—Patterson Du Bois in Success Magazine.

One Kind of Tanning.

HIRAM, KING OF TYRE.

The Phoenician Monarch and His Effort to Imitate the Deity.

Hiram, the Phoenician monarch, strove to imitate God by erecting four mighty pillars upon which he caused seven heavens—apartments—to be built. The first was constructed of glass, 500 by 500 yards, storing therein mock images of the sun, moon and stars. The second compartment of iron, 1,000 by 1,000 yards, was the receptacle of precious stones, causing a terrific noise resembling thunder when they crashed against each other and the casement of the inclosure. The third chamber was of lead, 1,500 by 1,500 yards. The fourth was of tin, 2,000 by 2,000 yards. The fifth was of copper, 2,500 by 2,500 yards. The sixth was of silver, 3,000 by 3,000 yards. The seventh was of gold, 3,500 by 3,500 yards, containing precious stones, pearls and a magnificent throne. A channel of water separated the apartments.

Hiram, imitating the royal splendor of the court of King Solomon, surrounded himself by the grandest conceivable display of magnificence. In the seventh apartment was stationed a golden bed, the corners of which were set in pearls without value in all the world, sparkling forth beautiful flashes resembling lightning, which spread wonder and terror among his subjects.

The prophet Ezekiel was ordered to appear before Hiram, who, at a loss as to how to reach the seven heavens wherein the monarch presided, was transported into his castle by the locks of his hair. Upon perceiving the divine messenger Hiram trembled. "Who art thou?" thundered the indignant harbinger of future events. "Why dost thou boast? Art thou not born of woman's womb?"

"I am," replied Hiram, "but I live forever. Like God dwelling over waters, dwell I. Like him reigning over seven heavens, I rule in seven apartments. As God is surrounded by lightning and thunder, so am I. God has stars in heaven; so have I. Many sovereigns have succumbed to mortality, and I still exist. Twenty-one kings of the house of Israel and David, twenty prophets and ten high priests have departed this earth, but I outlive them all."

"Why dost thou boast?" again demanded Ezekiel.

"Because thou didst supply the cedars for Solomon's temple? This puts me in mind of a subject who prepared a splendid garment for his sovereign, and as often as the servant gazed at the glorious piece of work he boastingly remarked, 'This is my manufacture,' until the king, observing his vanity, tore it off in disgust. Such will be thy lot. The temple which thou helpest to build will be destroyed. What will then become of thy pride?"

Where They Have Time to Be Polite.

Copenhagen, Denmark, is a city of canals and cleanliness—a land of pure delight, free from beggars, organ grinders and stray dogs. The inhabitants thereof are born courteous and seem never to have recovered from the habit.

When a passenger boards a car in Copenhagen he exchanges greetings with the conductor. A gentleman on leaving the car usually lifts his hat in acknowledgment of a salute from that official. When a fare is paid the conductor drops it into his cash box, thanks the passenger and gives him a little paper receipt.

He offers change with a preliminary "Be so good," and the passenger accepts with thanks. If, in addition, transfers are required complimentary exchanges go on indefinitely. Yet there is always time enough in Copenhagen.—Caroline Domett in Four Track News.

Scotland and Whisky.

"One of the grossest misconceptions from which Scotland suffers," says a writer, "is that her national drink is and always has been whisky. But this is just as untrue, neither more nor less, as that the national garb of Scotland is the kilt. Whisky, like the kilt, is a purely Celtic or highland product, and up to the middle of the eighteenth century it was just as unfamiliar in the lowlands as the clan tartans. It was only after the '45 that the highlanders began to settle in the lowlands and bring their whisky with them, but before that the national drink of the lowlanders had been ale. Tam-o'-Shanter and Souter Johnny got 'roarin' fou' not on whisky, but on strong beer."

The Fates.

Fable teaches that the fates were three goddesses, holding, one a spindle, another a distaff and the third a pair of shears. They spun the thread of human life, then cut it off, and men's destiny was either happy or unhappy according to the texture of the wool employed by these inexorable deities. Might it not be said that here below we play more or less the part of the fates? It is we who, in some degree, mold our own destinies.—Pittsburg Press.

Another Shock.

"Yes," said the waiter, "this cafe is thoroughly up to date. We cook by electricity."

"Is that so?" said the guest, pointing to a platter. "Then will you please give that beefsteak another shock?"—Detroit Free Press.

Shavings.

"By the great omelet!" clucked the old hen, as she cuddled down upon the thirteen eggs, "this nest is made of excelsior. No doubt about it, this is going to be a shaving set."—Watson's Magazine.

'Tis not necessity, but opinion, that makes men miserable, and when we come to be fancy sick there's no cure.

Putting Out a Fire.

When trying to put out a fire remember that one gallon of water at the bottom of the blaze will do more to put it out than ten gallons at the top. "Play low" is the motto to follow while fighting fire. A few gallons at the bottom of the flames will rise in clouds of steam when the fire is rising and quench it. A big blaze on the leeward side looks fearful, but play low with the water on the bottom of the fire on the windward side and you have the speediest way to quench the flames and will not require a river.

EXECUTION.

Department No. 1. In the Superior Court of the State of California in and for the City and County of San Francisco.

The people of the State of California to the sheriff of the county of Amador greeting:

Whereas, on the 1st day of November A. D. 1906, James S. Brownell plaintiff, recovered a judgment in the superior court of the State of California, in and for the city and county of San Francisco, against Wildman Consolidated Mines (a corporation) defendant for the sum of $2074.50 dollars, damages, with interest thereon from the date thereof at the rate of seven per cent per annum till paid, together with costs and disbursements at the date of said judgment, amounting to the sum of $19.75 as appears to us of record;

And whereas, the Judgment Roll in the action in which said judgment was entered is filed in the clerk's office of said court in the city and county of San Francisco, and the said judgment was docketed in said clerk's office, in said city and county, on the day and year first above written.

And the sum of $2074.50 with interest thereon as aforesaid, together with costs in the sum of $19.75 as above recited, is now (at the date of this writ) actually due on said judgment.

Now, you the said sheriff, are hereby required to make the said sums due on the said judgment for damages, with interest as aforesaid and the costs, and accruing costs, to satisfy the said judgment out of the personal property of the debtor Wildman Consolidated Mines (a corporation), or if sufficient personal property of said debtor cannot be found, then out of the real property in your county belonging to said debtor on the day whereon said judgment was docketed in the aforesaid city and county, or at any time thereafter; and make return of this writ within sixty days after your receipt hereof, with what you have done endorsed hereon.

In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and affixed the seal of the said Superior Court, at my office in the city and county of San Francisco, state of California, this 8th day of November A. D. 1906.

(Seal) H. I. Mulcrevy, clerk.
By J. J.Greif, deputy clerk.

Sheriff's Sale Under Execution.

Jas. S. Brownell plaintiff, vs. Wildman Consolidated Mines, (a corporation), defendant.

By virtue of an execution issued out of the Superior Court of the city and county of San Francisco, state of California, on the 5th day of November 1906, wherein Jas. S. Brownell was plaintiff, and Wildman Consolidated Mines, (a corporation) was defendant, upon a judgment rendered on the 1st day of November 1906, for $2074.50 with interest at 7 per cent per annum and $19.75 costs, besides accruing costs and disbursements, I have this day levied upon all the right, title, claim and interest of said defendant, Wildman Consolidated Mines, (a corporation) in and to the following real estate and premises situated in the county of Amador, state of California, and described as follows, to-wit:

Being those certain mines, mining claims and other properties, in Sutter Creek Mining District, county of Amador, state of California, embracing what is known as the "Wildman property" and particularly described as follows:—That certain mining claim known as the "Wildman Quartz Mine" being the same premises patented by the Untied States to Cyrus T. Wheeler, on the 11th day of July, 1883, which patent was on the 5th day of November 1886, recorded in the office of the county recorder of the county of Amador, state of California, in volume "A" of Quartz Mineral Patents at page 141 et seq., Amador County Records, to which patent and said record thereof reference is hereby made for a more particular description of said premises. Also that certain lot of land situated in the town of Sutter Creek in said county and state aforesaid, particularly described in that certain deed bearing date October 1st, 1896, executed by George M. Wachter and wife to W. H. Emerson, and recorded November 12th, 1896, in volume 13 of deeds, page 624, in the office of the county recorder of Amador county, state of California, to which deed and said record reference is hereby specially made for a more particular description of said premises; also that certain lot of land situated in said county and state known as the Wildman Gold Mining Company's Reservoir Site, and described as follows, towit:—Commencing at a post in the fence on the north side of the lone and Volcano road, whence bears the northeast corner of Blue Lakes Water Company's Tanner Reservoir site, inclosed, south 86 degrees 10 minutes east, 93.5 feet distant; thence north 60 degrees 50 minutes west, 82 feet to a stake; thence north 5 degrees 30 minutes east, 495.5 feet to a stake, whence a black live oak 14 inches in diameter, blazed and marked X bears south 35 degrees 15 minutes west, 60.4 feet distant; thence north 56 degrees 40 minutes west 149 feet to the fence built by James Tanner on the east bank of Blue Lake Water Company's ditch; thence along said fence and said eastern bank of said ditch which runs closely to the following courses and distances; 1st. south 29 degrees 55 minutes west 146.6 to four-forked black oak tree in fence line; 2nd south 23 degrees 55 minutes west 224.6 feet to post of fence; 3rd south 7 degrees 20 minutes west, 196.3 feet to post of fence; 4th, south 12 degrees 25 minutes east, 88 feet to post of fence; 5th, south 3 deg. 40 min. east, 81 feet to a black oak tree 16 inches in diameter in line of fence; 6th, south 59 feet to post of fence; 7th, south 38 degrees 40 minutes east, 74.5 feet to a point in said fence line on said north side of said road, whence a black oak tree, 13 inches in diameter bears north 38 degrees 40 minutes west 10.5 feet distant; thence along said fence and roadside north 53 degrees 25 minutes east, 337 feet to the point of commencement; also that certain lot of land situated in the town of Sutter Creek, county and state aforesaid particularly described in that certain deed dated July 15th, 1890, executed by John Fullen and wife to the Wildman Gold Mining Company and recorded July 21st, 1890, in book 5 of deeds, page 255, in the office of the county recorder of said county of Amador, to which deed and said record thereof reference is hereby made for a more particular description of said premises; also that certain lot of land in and near the town of Sutter Creek, county and state aforesaid, particularly described in that certain deed executed by Ellen Tucker to the Wildman Gold Mining Company, on April 28th 1899, which deed was on said 28th day of April 1899, recorded in book "18" of deeds pages 51 et seq. in the office of the county recorder of said Amador county, to which deed and said record thereof, reference is hereby made for a more particular description of said premises,

Also those certain mining claims known as the Reserve Quartz Mine, the Prize Quartz Mine; the Nadir Quartz Mine, the Hilltop Quartz Mine; the Enhance Quartz Mine and the X Ray Quartz Mine, all situated in said mining district, county and state, all of which were located by W. H. Emerson on the first day of December, 1896; also all other mining properties now owned by the Wildman Gold Mining Company, situated in the said county of Amador, state of California. Also all right, title and interest, which said Wildman Gold Mining Company has or may hereafter acquire in and to those certain mines, mining claims and properties situated in said mining district, county and state embracing what is known as the "Hector Property" particularly described as follows, towit:—Mineral Lots numbers 43, 53, and 54 in Section 6 Township 6 north, range 11 east, heretofore known respectively as the South Lincoln, Mahoney and South Mahoney Mines, but commonly known as and called collectively, "The Mahoney or Hector Mine." A certain interest in a mining claim lying north of said Mahoney Mine and east of the Lincoln Mine, known as and called the "Hubbard and McAdams Quartz Mine".

Lot 14 in block 1 of the townsite of Sutter Creek, upon which is erected a forty stamp mill of the Hector Mining Company. The right to the surplus water flowing through the Lincoln ditch as said right is defined by a decree entered in the United States Circuit Court, ninth circuit, northern district of California, in an action wherein the Lincoln Gold Mining Company was complainant and the Hector Gold Mining Company was respondant, pipe-lines and easements and rights of way for pipe line and water-ways heretofore used and enjoyed by said Hector Gold Mining Company or the Wildman Gold Mining Company in operating said mines or mill.

Public notice is hereby given that I will on Saturday, December 15th, 1906, at 1 o'clock, p. m. of said day, in front of the court house of the county of Amador, sell at puplic auction for lawful money of the United States, all the right, title, claim and interest of the said defendant, Wildman Consolidated Mines, (a corporation), of in and to the above described property, or so much thereof as may be necessary to satisfy said judgment, with interest, costs, etc., to the highest and best bidder.

Dated, Jackson, this 8th day of November A. D., 1906.

T. K. NORMAN,
Sheriff of the county of Amador.
By H. E. Kay, deputy sheriff.

POSTPONEMENT.

The above sale is hereby postponed until Thursday, January 3, 1907, at the hour of 1 o'clock p. m. of said day.
